I PROMISE THEM

by

LT. (J. G.) DULANEY FOSTER, USNR
7-14-45

There is no pen, nor power of expression to record the last scene,
Where men at war fell and went to rest beneath the green.
Poets in beauteous but futile verse have vainly tried.
To tell of lonely graves, white crosses for the men who died.
I've seen War Cemeteries in North Africa,Europe and the Pacific too,
But what I've beheld and felt no one could describe for you.
His thought comes, why did it have to be?
Yet, we know, there is no reason, no decree.
We think, "But for the Grace of God, where go I?
Why so, that I should live and they should die?"
A wave of grief sweeps over us and seems to drown our soul.
And we cry out, "For What, If you win, you've lost the Goal."
Until you've stood and looked into a Field of Crosses, you'll never know,
The [illegible]
And with determination pledge, "This is the last Time, I Promise them."

(Note: The author of the above is the son-in-law of the Rev and Mrs. H. Frederick Jones, of Appomattox, and is now of an L. C. T. Somewhere in the Pacific).

SON'S BIRTHDAY

In Memory of George W. Almond's, S 2-C, 18th birthday,July 25, 1945. Serving in the U. S. Coast Guard.

Happy Birthday, dear son,
Although you are far away,
We think of you as often,
Especially on this day.

We were called upon for service,
We gave our only son,
We never will regret it,
For Victory must be won.

The vacant place within our home
God's presence there can fill,
We will cherish the vacant place
Until you return again.

We think of you each night and day,
For you we often pray,
We never knew how much we loved you,
Until you went away.

So happy, happy Birthday,
Though you are far away,
The Lord will watch between us
Until you come home to stay.

Mother, Daddy and Sister.
Written by his mother, Mrs. A. C. Almond, Spout Springs, Va.

Take My Word For It!
By FRANK COLBY

HANDBOOK OF PRACTICAL ENGLISH

Q.—Why don't you use your influence to stamp out the erroneous use of "the reason why"?

A.—That "the reason why" is incorrect is superstition and nothing more. We find the phrase in the best literature. In the 1800s, Tom Brown wrote:

I do not love thee, Doctor Fell,
The reason why I cannot tell.
In the 1900s, Cory used the phrase in a lovely verse. Mimmermnin Church:

All beauteous things for which we live
By laws of time and space decay.
But oh, the very reason why
I clasp them, is because they die.

"The reason why" is no more illogical than "the place where" or "the time when."
